RELIAQUEST GREYMATTER FOR ENDPOINT DETECTION AND RESPONSE
Reduce the noise, focus on behaviors, and remediate threats faster

The Endpoint Is the New Perimeter

With digital transformation, the use of cloud application services, third-party business applications, and bring your own device, the perimeter has dissolved. To get between a user and their application, the new perimeter is the endpoint itself. Endpoint Detection and Response allows an enterprise to get a deep set of forensic details on each host for quicker threat detection, analysis, and containment. EDR increases enterprise visibility and results in faster recognition and remediation of threats.

ReliaQuest GreyMatter

ReliaQuest GreyMatter, a cloud-native Open XDR platform, brings together telemetry from any security and business solution to unify detection, investigation, response and resilience. ReliaQuest is a force multiplier for security operations to increase visibility, decrease complexity, and reduce risks, combining the power of technology and 24/7/365 security expertise to make security programs more effective. With GreyMatter, customers see fast, measurable results, including a 400% increase in threat detection within the first 90 days of going live.

Maximize your EDR investment with ReliaQuest GreyMatter
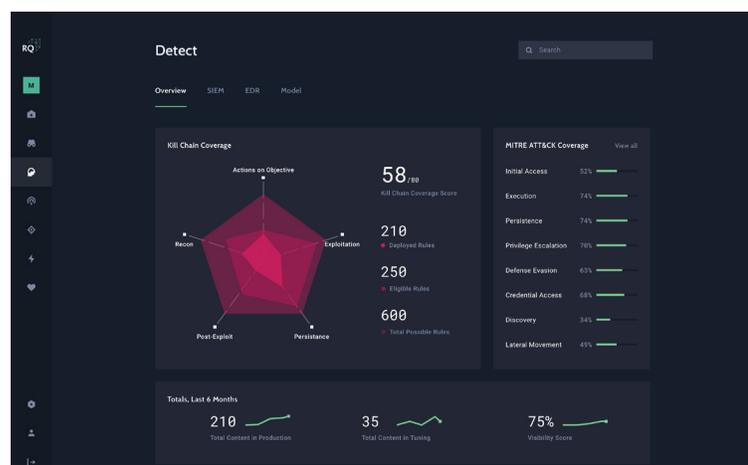

◢ Increased Visibility

- Universal Translator™ collects and normalizes data, on demand, directly from EDR and other sources, such as SIEM, cloud providers, and third-party apps in one, unified view.
- Alert level automation providing all initial artifacts an analyst needs to start at the investigation stage and skip data gathering across multiple tools.
- Understand EDR health conditions proactively such as, server health, sensor health, and agent saturation ensuring optimal performance and no disconnect in visibility or processes.

◢ Decreased Complexity

- The behavioral threat feed mapped back to MITRE ATT&CK®, NIST, and other frameworks providing higher alert fidelity.
- Decreased false positives with continuously developed, tuned, and updated content mapped to your business risks.
- Respond faster across devices by kicking off pre-built playbooks such as, isolating a host, banning a hash, and removing malicious files.
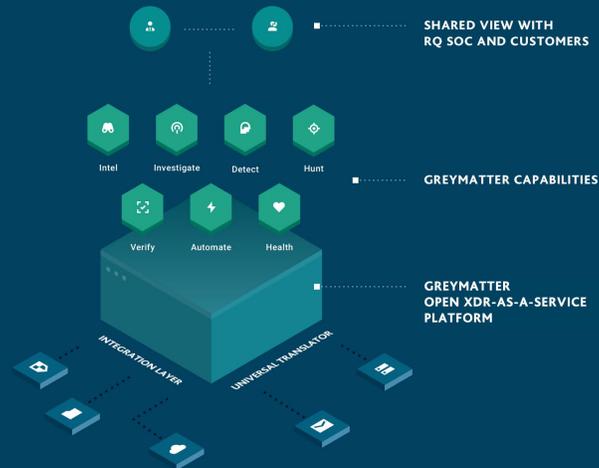

◢ Reduced Risk

- Continuous attack simulation identifies misconfigurations and detection capabilities.
- Actively model and communicate risk tolerance based on the evolution of your business, benchmarked against past performance and industry peers.

ReliaQuest GreyMatter maximizes the effectiveness of your EDR by providing visibility and integration across your security toolset. With visibility and higher fidelity tuning and detection content, customers decrease false positives, and automate across the security lifecycle to speed response.

Accelerate EDR Time-to-Value

ReliaQuest GreyMatter maximizes the effectiveness of your EDR by decreasing false positives and speeding time to decide with automation across the security lifecycle. With a foundation from tuning and custom content, GreyMatter layers on proactive threat hunting and automated attack simulations to continuously improve security posture. Custom behavioral IOCs produce higher fidelity alerts across all devices within your organization. Proactive threat hunting campaigns across your security ecosystem drive better abnormality detection, effectively showing "known good" vs "known bad." Customer-specific policies based on applications, software, and business use cases define enforcement levels for any assets or compliance requirements tailored to any and all operating systems. Continual tuning of the environment, and exclusion of known good results in up to a 60% reduction in false positives.

ReliaQuest GreyMatter leverages a combination of your EDR technology alongside other sources in your security ecosystem to unify detection, investigation, response, and resilience. ReliaQuest is the force multiplier for security operations teams, combining the power of technology and human expertise to give organizations the visibility and coverage they need for more effective security operations that delivers value to the business.

◢ ReliaQuest EDR customers average 78% reduction in EDR alert volume in the first 6 months
